Bopology
Thur Nov 16 7pm
Woodland Park Oakwood Hall

Chicago's Original Swing Band!

Enjoy vintage swing musicianship that only years of experience provides. Established in 1992, the Swing revival was just beginning when Bopology became part of Chicago's music fabric. Having three CD's to their credit and nominated by the Chicago Reader as a 2017 Best Jazz Band, Bopology is still an active influence in the vintage sound community.

With their unique music style of 1950's and 1960's sound delivered through an immersion in Modern Swing, Bopology recreates the swing revival of 1998 – 2002, including on their playlist music from the movie The Mask (1996 Warner Bros. Jim Carey), along with jazz standards and jump blues.

Adela, Cellist
Sun Mar 24 3 pm
Woodland Park Sycamore Hall

others to bring a song's truest essence to life. Her debut album Your Wifi Signal Has Been Lost (2016) has been described as elegant and whimsical, and her style, lauded as free-sprinted and diverse, draws from a range of influences - blues, folk, pop and classical music. Adela started an FM radio program in the Chicago area featuring the music she loves. As a private teacher, Adela has provided instruction to students of all ages on cello, guitar, piano and ukelele. Moreover, her students have won seating placements at the annual ILMEA orchestra competition.

Mariachi Ameca
Thur May 2 7 pm

Hobart Art Theater

Back by Popular Demand!

Formed in the mid-1980's, Mariachi Ameca is a popular family-based Mexican folk music mariachi band with three generations performing today on guitars, trumpets, and violins as well as showcasing talented vocalists. While a traditional mariachi band, they have also expanded to include some jazz and popular English tunes to their repertoire, which adds to their appeal to a wider audience. Mariachi Ameca performed at Six Flags Great America for about ten years and also made an appearance in the movie The Jackal, starring Bruce Willis.

The costumes worn by the group along with their lively music adds a visually stunning experience to their exciting and dynamic show.
